

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, December 11. 1717.

London, December 11.

Yesterday arriv'd six Mails from Holland.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated Dec. 10 and 17.

Genoa, November 25.

TIS said that the Minister of this Republick at the Court of Spain, having received Orders to depart the Kingdom, he accordingly set out from Madrid, to return home, but had not got above 8 Leagues, before he was arrested.

Genoa, Nov. 27. They write from Sardignia the 18th, that the Spanish Fleet was to set Sail, in Order to return to the Ports of Catalonia. The Garrison of Larghero is arriv'd here from Villa Franca, consisting of two Companies, one whereof is gone for Tortona, and the other is to march into the Lunegiana. The Regiment of Hamilton is gone to the Side of Corraa, and thereabouts.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Dec. 9.

Vienna, Nov. 24. Sir Robert Sutton, and Mr. Stanyan, Ministers of the King of Great Britain, have both received Orders to go to Turkey, to mediate a Peace between the Emperour and the Grand Seignior, and they are accordingly preparing for their Journey, but 'tis thought that will take them up still two or three Weeks time, and by that time they will receive their full Powers and Instructions. 'Tis suppos'd they will tarry some time at Belgrade, to provide themselves with what is necessary for their further Journey, and wait till the Place of Treaty is agreed upon. Mr. Stanyan has also received his Commission to go to relieve Mr. Wortley Montague, in the Quality of Ambassadour in Ordinary of his Britannick Majesty at the Ottoman Porte.

Vienna, Nov. 27. We hear from the Turkish Frontiers, that the Sultan is depos'd, and that his Brother, or his Brother's Son, is set up in his Place. But this needs Confirmation.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated Dec. 14.

Vienna, Dec. 1. The Appearance of an approaching Peace with the Turks increases daily; and we hear that the Sultan has already nam'd an Ambassadour, and that a Detachment is sent from Belgrade to receive him at Nizza.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Dec. 14.

Vienna, Dec. 4. The Secretary of the British Ambassy at the Ottoman Porte is arriv'd here with some Dispatches, and will suddenly return back to Turkey. We understand by him, that a great Company was come from the Porte towards Belgrade, from whence a Guard is sent to meet, and conduct them in Safety.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated Dec. 17.

Leipsick, Dec. 8. Letters which we have receiv'd from Hermanstadt in Transilvania dated the 19th of last Month advise, That the Grand Seignior had held a Divan at Philippopoli, to deliberate upon the present State of his Affairs, and upon the Conditions on which a Peace may be treated on with the Emperour. 'Tis added, that the Sultan had a Design to go to Adrianople, to remain there till he could return to the Capital of his Empire in Safety. And judging that the best way of pacifying the Minds of the People is to make a Peace, he had dispatch'd an Aga for that purpose to Belgrade.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Dec. 16.

Basil, Dec. 8. The Abbot de St. Gall, (of whom we have often spoken) died on the 28th of November of an Apoplexy, near Lindaw on the Lake of Constans. And we hear, that already there are four Candidates for that Abbey. 'Tis believ'd that the Conferences which are held at Aaria will now be broke up, and that those that were to have been held at Baden, will not very soon begin.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated Dec. 14.

Lemberg, Nov. 17. The Express whom the Count de Seniawsky, Great General of the Crown Army, lately sent to Jassy, to know what pass'd in Turkey, return'd the 12th Instant to Brzezan; and he reports, that there is a Rebellion at Constantinople, which obliges the Sultan to remain near Philippopoli with a great Number of his Troops, who have promis'd to stand by him, and assist him in subduing the Rebels. The same Express confirms that the Lord Saerban, who has been divers Years at the Court of Vienna, has been named by the Emperour Hospodar of Wallachia.

Warsaw, Nov. 28. The Great General of the Crown Army is still at Brzezan, and the new Bassa of Choczim has written to him, to assure that he will maintain good Friendship with him, and avoid giving the Republick any Occasion for Rupture: To which the General made a very civil Answer suitable to the Occasion. The Grand Seignior waits till the Rebels are reduc'd, before he will go to Constantinople to assemble the Divan, and take the necessary Measures for continuing the War against the Emperour, in Case the Peace be not made. The Sultan has sent Troops to sustain the Hospodar whom he has establish'd in Wallachia, against him whom the Emperour has named for that Government.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Dec. 11.

From the Lower Elbe, Dec. 7. According to the Advices from Riga and Revel, Baron Gortz was very civilly treated by the Czar, but it could not be perceiv'd that any thing of Moment had pass'd concerning the Peace between the King of Sweden and his Czarish Majesty. However, Order was given to conduct that Baron to Abo in Safety.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Dec. 18.

From the Lower Elbe, Dec. 14. Letters from Lunden of the 3d Instant mention, that Baron Gortz landed at Oerebro, 6 Miles from Stockholm, the 24th of November, and went directly to Stockholm, where he would tarry six Days, and then go to Lunden to wait upon the King. Some Letters say, that he had two Russians with him, but others say, that he left them at Abo, and that he was to send them Word thither, whether the King approv'd the Articles propos'd for Peace, or not. Count van Dornath was set out from Lunden to meet that Baron, to give him Notice of what was necessary for him to be acquainted with.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated Dec. 14.

Hamburg, Dec. 7. The Magistrates of this City have written a Letter to the King of Denmark, to thank his Majesty for releasing their Ships. There is nothing new from Copenhagen. The Letters from thence remarking only that all is quiet in Norway; and that they have so well fortified the Places whereby the Swedes might possibly enter the Kingdom, that it was not at all suspected they will attempt a new Invasion, as had been given out. And in Effect, the Advices from Sweden say, that the King thinks no longer of attacking Norway; but that he has order'd an Armament to be made for some other Expedition, which is kept Secret. These Advices add, that they expected the Arrival of Baron Gortz, to know if they should have a Peace with the Czar. That Baron has written hither, That he could not enough applaud the favourable Reception he has had from the Czar, who gave him Guards to conduct him in Safety to Sweden, and he hoped his Negotiation would have a happy Success. Some Letters from Petersburg advise, that his Czarish Majesty intended to go shortly to Moscow, and that he had commanded 40 or 50000 Men to winter in the Ukraine, and had also given Orders to prepare at Wironitz, against Spring, a great Number of Barks, and several Fligates.
